ANNEXATION PLAN HAS OPPOSITION AT CLUB MEET

Exchange Members Are Not In Favor of Project; Speakers Protest

Members of the Glendale Exchange club yesterday noon went on record opposed to the annexation of Glendale with Los Angeles.

Upon motion of R. E. Johnston of 440 South San Fernando Road, President W. B. Kelly of 106 West Colorado street appointed a committee to investigate this project and report back to the club at its next meeting.

Among those appointed on this committee were James Howarth of 920 East Broadway; Mr. Johnsten, George H. Thomas of 104 North Brand boulevard and Fred E. Hoyt of 205 East Broadway.

"I would fight tooth and nail against giving away what we have!" exclaimed Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson. "Let me ask which gave the best service—a branch postoffice or an independent postoffice?"

Against Annexation

"I am absolutely opposed to annexation," declared George A. Whitaker, proprietor of the establishment at 400 East Broadway known as the Broadway Pharmacy.

Among other club members, who spoke briefly against annexation were W. C. Waring of 201 South Brand boulevard and G. C. McConnell of 633 East Broadway.

Col. James W. Everington of 531 North Louise street was a guest at the luncheon and urged the club to get behind the Salvation Army drive which will be staged in this city the first part of December. He stated that no money could possibly be invested which would bring better returns. From an intimate acquaintance with the Salvation Army, he endorsed its work heartily.

Club to Aid Drive

Announcement was made that the Exchange club would be responsible during the campaign for the district between Brand boulevard and Glendale avenue; Colorado avenue and California avenue.

To co-operate with the executive committee, a committee of three was appointed by Captain Kelly: Fred S. Hill of 128 South Orange street; L. G. Scovern, 1000 South Brand boulevard and B. L. Cline, 134 North Orange street.

A talk on Community Service was given by Don T. Orput, local representative of this organization. He said that a million and a half hours a week of spare time were going to waste right here in Glendale.

Leads in Singing

"We are going to continue here not only a city of homes," he declared, "but also a city of neighbors."

Miss Roberta Wienans, one of the workers of the Community Service, led the club in a number of songs at the close of the meeting.

The luncheon, which was served under the direction of William E. Herzel at the Broadway Inn, was the object of much praise. The menu consisted of soup, salads, lamb chops, mashed potatoes, peas, hot muffins, coffee, ice cream and cake.

Souvenir memorandum books were distributed by L. G. Scovern, mortician.

Queen Esther Circle Holds Big Meeting

Misses Eunice and Agnes Caldwell were hostesses on Monday night to the Queen Esther Circle of the Home Missionary Society of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

An unusually fine cafeteria style dinner was served, following which the monthly business meeting took place.

The program opened with a chapter study conducted by Miss Dorothy Peart, from the textbook "In the Vanguard of a Race," which forms the basis of the year's work. The chapter dealt with the life of Booker T. Washington and is understood to have proved most interesting.

Miss Frances Betz then gave a reading appropriate to the theme, showing the results of home missionary work among a group of negroes in one of the industrial homes of the south.

The attendance is reported to have been excellent.

Mrs. Nellie Case to Be Chapter Hostess

Chapter BA of the P. E. O. announces a guest day Friday at the home of Mrs. Nellie Case, 343 North Maryland avenue. Luncheon will be served and a speaker on domestic science will address the chapter.

Mrs. Hallie Stamps, president, states that Chapter BA held its last meeting at the home of Mrs. H. E. Noble, 327 North Jackson street, with Mrs. Arthur Cross as hostess. Mrs. Charles Poll gave a very interesting talk and drill on the correct use of English.

UNION HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A. TO HAVE XMAS PROGRAM

Organization Plans Guest Day; Mrs. Hartley Shaw Tells Juvenile Work

Many things of interest were included in the program of the Glendale Union High School Parent-Teachers' association meeting yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the school. Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, president, directed the meeting, which opened with the salute to the flag and the singing of "America The Beautiful."

The first announcement of the afternoon was that of the Christmas program to be presented before the P.-T. A. by the high school students, Monday afternoon, December 18. It is to be guest day and every member is to bring one or more guests. On the same day the P.-T. A. members are to hold a candy sale at the high school for the benefit of the association. Mrs. C. J. Higgins will preside over the candy booth and she is urging all the P.-T. A. members to contribute home-made candy for sale.

Membership Drive

Another pre-holiday affair of the P.-T. A. is to be an intensive membership drive under the leadership of Mrs. W. F. Sayler, who has arranged the city into districts, each district to be under an assisting chairman, who is to enroll in the High School P.-T. A. every high school parent living in the district.

Mrs. Hartley Shaw, chairman of the juvenile court and probation committee, also an active member of the Los Angeles County Probation committee, was the first speaker introduced by Mrs. Widdows. Mrs. Shaw spoke briefly concerning unchaperoned social affairs of young people, particularly those of high school age.

She told of the work of the juvenile court and of desire on the part of juvenile court officers and workers to do away with the juvenile court by doing away with those conditions that bring boys and girls before the court. Mrs. Shaw emphasized the necessity of chaperonage and after reading the probation committee's creed she presented a pledge supporting chaperonage, which she urged the parents to sign.

The creed reads, "Workers of right for right's sake. In kind-

Several Masons who took the women to the Walter home in their cars were also guests at the lunch and afternoon affair.

Frank Booth Hears About New Depot

Frank Booth of III South Kenwood, states that while visiting in Southern Glendale he received authentic information that the Southern Pacific Railroad company is contemplating the erection of a new passenger depot on property it owns between Brand boulevard and the old Tropic station.

Mr. Booth states also that the company purposes to locate the new depot there so that it may be convenient for Hollywood people going north to come to Glendale to take a train instead of going to Los Angeles.

"The location of the new depot in Southern Glendale will be the crowning climax as a grand gateway to Glendale," declared Mr. Booth.

SATURDAY TO BE CIRCUS DAY HERE

Tuesday Afternoon Club to Have 'Big Doings' at the Elks Club Home

Only one more day till circus day!

And then it's not going to be featured by "canvas tops," sawdust rings and pink lemonade, for it's to be a Society Circus and the Women of the Tuesday Afternoon club are to be hostesses and the Elks club home on Colorado street is to furnish the attractive setting for the many attractions.

Such a medley of attractions have been either announced or hinted at by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, general chairman or ring mistress as she might be called, that club members and friends are anticipating an afternoon and evening of unequaled entertainment.

Aid Worthy Cause.

Cooperating with Mrs. Montgomery are members of the club, merchants of Glendale, Arthur Dibbern, exalted ruler of the Elks, John Roman, house manager, and Harry McPherson, auctioneer.

As circuses go, society or otherwise, Saturday's affair is to rival them all and no matter what one's penchant may be, temptation will greet one on every hand.

Delightful luncheon and dinner menus have been arranged for noon and evening and between times the various booths and other attractions will entertain.

Here are some of the hints of what's in store:

A psychic booth in charge of Dr. Jessie A. Russell, where one may gaze into the future and take a peek into the past; a shoe shining stand directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker, who promises that a "shine" will never mean

Seventy Candidates Taken Into K. of C.

Knights of Columbus last night at the Chamber of Commerce hall initiated seventy candidates, composing the largest class in the history of the Glendale Council, into the first degree.

The work was put on by the Pasadena drill team headed by Past Grand Knight Barney Leonard.

Vincent O'Donnell of Los Angeles, whose tenor voice is said to rival McCormick's was among those initiated. He started today on a tour of the Orpheum circuit. Later in the evening he sang several solos. Although only 18 years of age, his voice is remarkably powerful.

Grand Knight Harry Girard outlined the work before the council during the coming year and emphasized the importance of the new $25,000 clubhouse which he stated would be ready for occupancy for the annual Christmas tree fete.

Almost $10,000 worth of bonds for the clubhouse were subscribed during a ten minute intermission.

Three One-Act Plays Will Be Presented

Women, if you want to learn how to keep young, you should see the one-act play "Ever Young" tomorrow night in the auditorium of Glendale Union high school.

Such is the opinion of Harold L. Brewster, head of the dramatic department, who has been coaching the three one-act plays which will be presented under the auspices of the student body.

The dialogue of the first play, which was written by Alice Gerstenberg, a playwright, is a conversation in a hotel lobby between four old women whose parts are taken by Miss Margaret Morgan, Miss Dorothy McGinnis, Miss Elizabeth Higgins and Miss Eleanor Foster.

"Op O' Me Thumb" is the title of the second one-act play. This is the skit from which Mary Pickford secured the plot for her film "Suds." The action takes place in the basement of a London laundry. Miss Grace Yarbrough as a slavey is the leading character. Three laundry girls are Miss Charlotte Chavell, Miss Alice Farrell and Miss Elaine Buttrud. Miss Beatrice Sutton is the hard-boiled proprietoress of the establishment which has one customer —Loren Patrick.

"A Ghost Story" is the title of the third play. This comedy was written by Booth Tarkington and is now being produced in Chicago. It revolves about the difficulty a college boy in the person of George Jansen, who is home for the Christmas holidays, has in proposing to a young lady whose part is played by Miss Margaret Richardson.

Others in the cast are Miss Florence Hamilton, Miss Kathleen Woods, Miss Laura Baldwin, Thomas McClellan, William Justema, Alvin Brown and Harold Heacock.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 16.—The near east war clouds rolled away today. WHITE HOUSE DECLINES TO MAKE NOTE PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The White House refused today to make public the text of a letter written by President Harding to Mrs. Douglas Robinson, of New York, in which he made some pertinent observations to the effect that the sentiment of the country is changing on prohibition. SPEEDERS TO SEE RESULT OF ACTION-DEATH

DETROIT, Nov. 16.—Speeders convicted by Judge Charles L. Bartlett next Wednesday will see an even more dismal picture of the havoc speeding has wrought than did the thirty convicted speeders who were carried to the city hospital here and brought face to face with little children victims of whizzing autoists. They will stare at death in the county morgue—death brought by bowling automobiles. "When a man speeds in an automobile he has murder in his heart," Judge Bartlett said today. "On next Wednesday, when the weekly list of speeder violators come before me I shall show them the tragedy of their folly. They shall see death, grim death, caused by their selfishness, face to face."

JAPAN HOPES AMERICA'S DECISION 'IS FOR BEST'

TOKIO, Nov. 16.—The better newspapers of Japan remain surprisingly calm in their comment on the decision of the United States supreme court holding Japanese ineligible for citizenship in the United States because they are not of the "white race." The only bitterness exhibited in the comment is over the implication that the decision may have been based on the belief the yellow race is inferior. Hopes are expressed in many leading editorials that the decision is for the best and that racial understanding will eventually wipe out the inferred implication of inferiority. The jingo press however, is typically bitter, the Yorodosu berating Chief Justice Taft as "upholding the Republican attitude toward Japan."

THOMAS LEE WOOLWINE WILL RESIGN, IS HINTED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—Recall proceedings against District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine were practically abandoned by ministers and civic workers of this city following their failure to impress the grand jury with charges of misconduct of his office by Woolwine. In a signed statement issued at the offices of Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, nine pastors and Mrs. Dora B. Stearns, president of the citizens' committee, which also requested Woolwine's recall, announced the abandonment of their recall movement on the grounds that Woolwine had announced he would resign. The district attorney, however, declared the pastors had been mistaken and that the true facts of the situation were that he had prepared to resign, but upon being informed of the recall movement being brought against him, had decided not to resign. With the proposed recall and threats of a recall a thing of the past however, it was hinted in official circles today that the district attorney would follow out his former program and offer his resignation to the board of supervisors. He plans to engage in private practice.

CLARA PHILLIPS IS GUILTY IN SECOND DEGREE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—Convicted of murder in the second degree for having beaten Mrs. Alberta Meadows to death with a hammer last July in Montecito drive, Mrs. Clara Phillips, former "pony" in a Broadway chorus girl review, today faces a term of from ten years to life in San Quentin penitentiary. The verdict in the "hammer murder" trial was returned at 10:30 a. m. after the jury had been out almost twenty-four hours. According to members of the jury there was never a doubt in their minds as to the guilt of Mrs. Phillips, but the question was the degree of her guilt. Mrs. Phillips took the verdict without showing a sign of emotion. Defense Attorney Bert Herrington immediately gave the customary notice of a new trial and Judge Houser set next Monday at 10 a. m., as the time for passing sentence. After court was adjourned Mrs. Phillips smiled, kissed her two sisters and husband, Armour L. Phillips. She appeared as though a heavy load had been taken from her shoulders. Eight of the jurors, including the three women, voted on the first ballots, to inflict the death penalty. Four jurors voted for acquittal and then offered manslaughter as a compromise. The verdict was agreed upon at 9:50 o'clock last night and was returned this morning at 10:30 o'clock after the jury had been out since 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Asked if she had any comment to make on the verdict, Mrs. Phillips replied: "I have my own ideas about things like that." The defense of insanity presented by Mrs. Phillips was said to have been discarded by all the jurors and was never given any serious consideration. The four jurors who saved Mrs. Phillips from a death penalty by voting for a compromise verdict contended that Peggy Caffee, star prosecution witness, was equally as guilty as Mrs. Phillips of the crime and that Mrs. Phillips should not be punished while Mrs. Caffee went free.

During the morning it was announced that the meeting next Wednesday will be "old members'" day. There will be no meeting Wednesday, November 29, preceding Thanksgiving.

In the afternoon Mrs. H. V. Henry discussed the book, "Mothers and Children," and Mrs. A. A. Barton presented an outline of the pamphlet, "Truth Telling as a Problem in the Child's Life."

Mrs. J. C. Danford, city librarian, also spoke of Children's Week and invited all mothers to attend the Boy Scout night Saturday to hear John Steven McGroarty.

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

Copyright 1921 by Edgar Rice Burroughs

The youthful daimio had taken advantage of the preoccupation of his captors during the last moments of Theriere to gnaw in two the grass rope which bound him to the mucker, and with hands still fast bound behind him had slunk into the jungle path that led toward his village.

"They will be upon us again now at any moment," whispered the girl. "What can we do?"

"We better duck," replied the mucker. "I hates to run away from a bunch of Chinks, but I guess it's up to us to beat it."

"But poor Mr. Theriere?" asked the girl.

"I'll have to bury him close by," replied the mucker. "I don't tink I could pack him very far tonight—I don't feel jest fit ag'in yet. You wouldn't mind much if I buried him here, would you?"

"There is no other way, Mr. Byrne," replied the girl. You mustn't think of trying to carry him far. We have done all we can for poor Mr. Theriere—you have almost given your life for him already—and it wouldn't do any good to carry his dead body with us."

"I hates to tink o' dem head-huntin' Chinks gettin' him," replied Bryne; "but maybe I kin hide his grave so's dey won't tumble to it."

"You are in no condition to carry him at all," said the girl. "I doubt if you can go far even without any burden."

The mucker grinned.

"Youse don't know me, miss," he said, and stooping he lifted the body of the Frenchman to his broad shoulder, and started up the hillside through the trackless underbrush.

It would have been an impossible feat for an ordinary man in the pink of condition, but the mucker, weak from pain and loss of blood, strode sturdily upward while the marveling girl followed close behind him. A hundred yards above the spring they came upon a little level spot, and here with the two swords of Oda Yorimoto which they still carried, they scooped a shallow grave in which they placed all that was mortal of the Count de Cadenet.

Barbara Harding whispered a short prayer above the new-made grave, while the mucker stood with bowed head beside her. Then they turned to their flight again up the wild face of the savage mountain. The moon came up at last to lighten the way for them, but it was a rough and dangerous climb at best. In many places they were forced to walk hand in hand for considerable distances, and twice the mucker had lifted the girl bodily in his arms to bear her across particularly dangerous or difficult stretches.

Shortly after midnight they struck a small mountain stream up which they followed until in a natural cul-de-sac they came upon its source and found their farther progress barred by precipitous cliffs which rose above them, sheer and unscalable.

They had entered the little amphitheatre through a narrow, rocky pass in the bottom of which the tiny stream flowed, and now, weak and tired, the mucker was forced to admit that he could go no farther.

"Who'd o' t'ought dat I was such a sissy?" he explaimed disgustedly.

"I think that you are very wonderful, Mr. Byrne," replied the girl. "Few men could have gone through what you have today and been alive now."

The mucker made a deprecatory gesture.

"I suppose we gotta make de best of it," he said. "Anyhow, dis ought to make a swell joint to defend."

Weak as he was he searched about for some soft grasses which he threw in a pile beneath a stunted tree that grew well back in the hollow.

"Here's yer downy," he said, with an attempt at jocularity. "Now you'd better hit de hay, fer youse must be dead fagged."

"Thanks!" replied the girl. "I am nearly dead."

So tired was she that she was asleep almost as soon as she had found a comfortable position in the thick mat of grass, so that she gave no thought to the strange position in which circumstances had placed her.

The sun was well up the following morning before the girl awakened, and it was several minutes before she could readjust herself to her strange surroundings. At first she thought that she was alone, but finally she discerned a giant figure standing at the opening which led from their mountain retreat.

It was the mucker, and at sight of him there swept over the girl the terrible peril of her position—alone in the savage mountains of a savage island with the murderer of Billy Mallory—the beast that had kicked the unconscious Theriere in the face—the mucker who had insulted and threatened to strike her! She shuddered at the thought. And then she recalled the man's other side, and for the life of her she could not tell whether to be afraid of him or not—it all depended upon what mood governed him. It would be best to propitiate him. She called a pleasant good morning.

Byrne turned. She was shocked at the pallor of his haggard face.

"Good morning," he said. "How did yeh sleep?"

"Oh, just splendidly, and you?" she replied.

"So-so," he answered.

She looked at him searchingly as he approached her.

"Why, I don't believe that you have slept at all," she cried.

"I didn't feel very sleepy," he replied, evasively.

"You sat up all night on guard!" she exclaimed. "You know you did."

METERS FOR RADIO USE

Vacuum tube reception and transmission has created a demand for measuring instruments of precision, which were hitherto unnecessary in the practical scheme of things. Instrument makers have realized that a special meter to perform specific functions in radio experimentation is demanded. The illustration shows a meter that has been designed for this purpose, which can be utilized for several different circuit measurements, thereby effecting both economy of space and expense.

The instrument is used as a D. C. Plate Current Milli-Ammeter, D. C. Plate Voltage Volmeter, D. C. Filament Current Ammeter and D. C. Filament Voltage Volmeter.

OTHER FORMS OF ALTERNATOR

In the previous articles we have only considered alternators of which the field magnets revolve, while the armature is stationary. That is the construction generally used on large machines, one reason being that it makes the armature easier to insulate. But it is also possible to have the field magnets stationary while the armature is made to revolve. Small machines are often built that way and are largely used for radio purposes. The principle is shown in Fig. 1.

The magnetic field occupies the space between the poles N and S of the stationary field magnet. The turn of wire AB is made to revolve about a horizontal axis in this magnetic field. When A is passing under the N pole, coming toward the reader, the electromotive force in it is to the right, and that in B, which is cutting through the same field (the direction of the magnetic flux is from the N pole to the S pole), but moving away from the reader, is to the left. Current will therefore flow in the turn of wire, and by way of the collector rings and brushes in the external circuit, as shown by the arrows.

When the loop has made a half revolution, A is passing in front of the S pole and the electromotive force in A is toward the left. In B it is toward the right. In the external portion, X, of the circuit the flow of current will then be opposite in direction to the arrows. The continued rotation of the loop thus causes an alternating current to flow in the circuit.

The simple bipolar magnet of Fig. 1 may be replaced by a multipolar electromagnet consisting of a massive cylindrical frame called a "yoke," from which poles project radially inward. Direct current is sent through coils or spools on the magnet poles. The same kinds of windings are used for the revolving armature as are used for the stationary kind; the only difference is that they are put on the outside instead of on the inner face of the core. A machine in which the field magnets are stationary, while the conductors, in which the electromotive force is induced, are rotated, is said to be of the "revolving armature" type.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S WIRELESS CONCERT

"Nurse Jane, could you bake a few little extra cakes, pies and jam tarts for this evening?" asked Uncle Wiggily one day as he was hopping out of his hollow stump bungalow.

"Extra cakes and tarts!" exclaimed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Why do you want them, Uncle Wiggily? Are you going to take your lunch and hop off on a long adventure trip?"

"Oh, no, nothing like that!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "But I am going to have a wireless telephone concert here this evening, and I'd like to give the company that I am going to invite something good to eat!"

"A wireless concert—here?" cried Nurse Jane.

"Certainly, right here in our hollow stump bungalow," answered Mr. Longears. "I'm going out now and get the wireless outfit."

"Well, I'll have the cake, pies and jam tarts ready," promised Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

Uncle Wiggily hopped to the cleven and twelve-cent store and bought himself a wireless outfit, with an aerial, ground wire, telephones and everything. He bought enough telephones so a dozen of his friends could listen in at the same time.

Grandfather Goosey Gander helped Uncle Wiggily put up the wireless. One end of the aerial wire was fastened in a tall tree outside the hollow stump bungalow, and Grandpa Goosey was very useful in flying up in the tree to fasten that end of the wire.

When evening came all was in readiness. Nurse Jane had baked some chocolate cream cakes, some jam tarts and pumpkin pies, and they were ready to serve.

Then the company began arriving. Uncle Butter, the goat, and Aunt Lettie, his wife, were the first to reach the bungalow.

"Anything on, Uncle Wiggily?" bleated Uncle Butter, picking up a pair of telephones and slipping them over his ears out of the way of his horns.

"I think it's just some phonograph music," answered Uncle Wiggily. "But a little later there is to be a grand concert broadcasted from JAM station."

"Why, that spells jam!" chattered Johnnie Bushytail, the little squirrel boy, who came in just then. "Are they going to broadcast any jam tonight, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Nurse Jane will do the broadcasting of the jam," chuckled the bunny gentleman.

Then more of the animal ladies and gentlemen, together with girls and boys, reached the hollow stump bungalow, and soon they sat about with telephones to their ears, listening to the wireless concert.

The concert was a fine one. There was singing and playing, jolly music that made you want to dance, and some songs so sad they made tears come in the eyes of Mr. Whitewash, the polar bear gentleman, who had shuffled over from his cave of ice to listen in.

All of a sudden, when every one was happy, listening to a band playing a fine tune, all at once, in bounced the bad Bob Cat with his little stump of a tail.

"Ah, now for some ears to nibble!" howled the Bob Cat.

As all of Uncle Wiggily's visitors had telephones over their ears, they had not heard the Bob Cat enter. But there he was.

"Oh, dear!" screamed Aunt Lettie, and every one took off the telephones except Aunt Jerusha Ann, the woodchuck lady. She kept her telephone over her ears, for she didn't want to miss any of the music.

"What do you want, Bob Cat?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"First I'm going to nibble your ears, and then I'm going to nibble the ears of everybody here!" snarled the Bob Cat. "I never saw so many ears for nibbling all in one place before," he snickered.

The Bob Cat listened for moment.

He was just reaching over to start nibbling Uncle Wiggily's ears when, all of a sudden, Aunt Jerusha Ann took the telephones from her ears and said:

"Oh, Mr. Bob Cat, wouldn't you like to listen in before you do any nibbling?"

"Listen to what?" impolitely growled the Bob Cat.

"To the wireless," answered Aunt Jerusha Ann, and before the Bob Cat could say "No" Aunt Jerusha Ann clapped the phones over the bad chap's ears. The Bob Cat listened for a moment and then he gave a loud howl, tore the phones from his ears and rushed out howling:

"Oh, don't let the dogs get me! Don't let the dogs get me!"

"What made him run?" they all asked Aunt Jerusha Ann when the Bob Cat had left.

"Because, just then, there was a chorus by Old Dog Percival and his friends," said Aunt Jerusha Ann. "The dogs from the broadcasting station barked so loudly that the Bob Cat thought they were just outside, I suppose, and as he was afraid of being bitten he ran away."

"Well, it's a good thing you made him listen in!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Now for the remainder of the concert." Then they all heard more music, and when it was over they ate the good things Nurse Jane had baked. So they all had a fine time.

And if the piece of cheese doesn't get up in the night and hide the milk bottle so the letter carrier can't find it, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the chips.

The Glendale

"Broadway Rose," with Mae Murray in the stellar role, continues to be the chief attraction at the Glendale Theatre. It offers her another of those vivid parts such as it is recalled she had in "Peacock Alley" and "Fascination," and provides those magnificent settings, gorgeous costumes and colorful dance episodes without which no Mae Murray picture is complete.

"Broadway Rose," in the opinion of Manager Howe, brings out delightful qualities of this ascendant star's personality and is a strong picture.

It tells the story of a country girl who became a Broadway favorite, and of her struggles out of which finally grew happiness.

The T. D. & L.

Tonight will witness the final performance of that mirth-provoking comedy "Clarence," with Wally Reid and other favorite Paramount players, at the T. D. & L. Theatre.

"If you have not already seen 'Clarence,'" urges Manager Allan, "by all means do so. It is one of the best shows we've run this season and has delighted thousands with its genuine humor. You'll laugh till you cry. Its side-splitting situations continue to unroll from the first reel till the last. There isn't a dull moment."

Tonight is the last opportunity to see this popular film that is said to chase all care away.

Letter From Harding Rather Mysterious

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Political circles here were buzzing today over a letter which President Harding has written to Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of the late Theodore Roosevelt, in which he is declared to have stated that the public mind is undoubtedly shifting somewhat with regard to the enforcement of prohibition.

Mrs. Robinson who read the letter yesterday to the members of the Republican Neighborhood association, today refused to give out the text for publication. She said she would first have to obtain permission from the president.

Members of the association who heard the letter read said the president expressed the belief that the eighteenth amendment would never be abolished, but that there is no doubt but what the public opinion is shifting somewhat in regard to enforcement of the act.

The president was reported to have said that he expects prohibition to be an issue for many years to come. Prohibitionsists, he said, would always clamor to enforce the law while anti-prohibitionists would work to see it weakened.

Mrs. Robinson said a Republican had written to her protesting against the prohibition issue. She said that she brought the letter to the president's attention, and that he sent her an answer.

MRS. BALDWIN IN DENIAL

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—Mrs. Anita Baldwin, daughter of the late E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin, today put to rest rumors that she intended to dispose of the famous ranch at Santa Anita and her world famous kennels and move to Boston. Mrs. Baldwin expressed her indignation at the rumor in a statement issued through her ranch manager, Edwin H. Moore.

Moore said that under the law the estate must remain intact through two lives, that of Mr. Baldwin and his daughter.

It was the second payment made by the British government. $50,000,000 having been received by this government on October 15. STATE MINERAL OUTPUT

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 16.—The average output per man in the mineral industries of California during the last year was $7000, according to a report submitted today to the state board of control by State Mineralogist Fletcher Hamilton. The total production for the year was $268,157,472, he said, and there were 38,000 miners employed. The report held that these figures showed several times the annual production per man in the agricultural industries.

Dentists are wonderful fellows

If your barber were to point out to you that you could save money by shaving yourself at home you would be afraid to go back to him again. You'd think he was crazy.

Yet your dentist, who has spent from four to twenty years or more in learning how to repair, clean, straighten or extract teeth or to replace lost teeth with crowns or plates, daily "throws away money" by cautioning his patients and teaching them how to preserve their teeth so his services will not be needed.

Give your dentist credit for his high sense of honor and duty and remember he has everything to lose and nothing to gain when he explains to you the virtues of

RED CROSS WORK BEING ENLARGED

Chief of Pacific Division Tells of Campaign to Hold Membership

"Indications point to a continuance of the present membership of more than 4,000,000 in the American Red Cross for 1923," said Colonel George Filmer, manager of the Pacific division, in a statement at the division office in the civic auditorium, San Francisco.

"An intensive campaign for memberships that the organization may carry out the obligations laid upon the Red Cross by its congressional charter, planned under the leadership of John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross," he continued, "opened last Saturday when the 306 chapters in the Pacific division commenced work on the sixth roll call.

This direct appeal in behalf of a great sustaining membership is being made for support of the service rendered by the American Red Cross in their homes and in hospitals, to disabled ex-service men and their families, for which some $10,000,000 will be spent this year in work the government is not authorized to do and for which no government funds are available. This work is going on in virtually every community in the United States through individual and sympathetic contact with the veterans by chapter workers.

Three Important Duties

"The Red Cross has in its program of activities three other important duties—public health nursing service for rural communities where adequate health-facilities are lacking; preparedness for relief in disaster, famine, flood, epidemic; and the work of the Junior Red Cross at home and abroad in building up among children everywhere a spirit of mutual trust and confidence and the will for unselfish service. These are the outstanding services in a program which includes widespread instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, in nutrition, general health conservation, first aid, water life saving, production of Braille for the blind and vast production of clothing for the needy at home and overseas by chapter volunteers.

Roll Call at Sea

"A new field of action in this campaign is a roll call on the high seas designed to register members on every ship afloat or in the ports of the world in which merchant marine companies and ship captains have been enlisted and the cooperation of the United States navy department obtained. The campaign in the insular possessions and in foreign chapters is also definitely planned with the view of increasing the enrollment.

"Members of the American Red Cross are modern minute men and women, the greatest proved reserve for relief the world has ever seen. In the roll call task the chapters have pledged themselves to maintain this reserve at its highest possible level. The Pacific division maintained its membership standing in all preceding roll calls of the American Red Cross and I look forward to having fine representation from all of the chapters this year."

American Jails Best, Woman's Trial Proves

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the martyred Lord Mayor of Cork, and sister-in-law of Mary MacSwiney, now reported near death by hunger striking in a Dublin prison, really likes American jails.

The American brand is infinitely superior to the English, she said today after emerging from the capitol's house of detention where she and six other Irish women sympathizers spent twenty-four hours for "insulting" the British ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, by picketing the British embassy. She has tried 'em in both countries.

"Surely," she said today, "persons who come out of American jails are better for their experiences than those held in British jails.

"Over there the treatment is barbarous. The English prison system breeds criminals. Every known torture is administered to prisoners. But over here, all is different. Here the food is decent, the beds are comfortable. the treatment is kind—yes, even your jails are even much more liberal than in England."

Appeals for Release of Mary MacSwiney

DUBLIN, Nov. 16.—The Dublin municipal corporation today appealed to the free state government to release Miss Mary Macswiney, who has been on a hunger strike since she was arrested in a raid upon a republican war council in this city November 4.

The doctors at Mountjoy prison refuse to give any information about Miss Macswiney's condition. Her friends claim she is in such a serious condition that death may be expected at any hour. This is denied by the prison authorities.

At Mountjoy prison it was said that Miss Macswiney is a "military prisoner" and therefore visitors are not allowed to see her.

Wedding of Chinese Emperor Postponed

PEKING, Nov. 16.—The wedding of the "boy emperor" of China did not take place today.

For the second time it has been postponed. This time the postponement names December as the time.

Inauspicious auguries from Heaven are given at the Forbidden City as the first reason for delay, but rumors of political intrigue and severe financial stringency are believed to have had a great deal to do with it.

Consternation has been caused at the palace by the emperor's action in installing a telephone.

He has sent word to his future empress that she must learn English and has issued an imperial edict naming himself Henry and the empress to be Elizabeth after British royalty.

The chosen empress has as her tutor Miss Isabel Graham, a young Wellessley graduate, and is learning English, tennis, fudge-making and bicycle riding under her tutelage.

The wedding of the young emperor without a country, for China long since has been a republic, marks his drive for freedom and power and with conditions as they are in China, no one knows just what the eventual result will be.

Tory Forces Winner; Two Women Elected

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Premier Andrew Bonar Law's Tory government will have a working majority in the next House of Commons, it was revealed this afternoon by a partial count of the returns from yesterday's election. The returns tabulated up to 2 o'clock showed the following elected:

Tory, 230; labor, 88; Asquith Liberals, 30; Lloyd George Liberals, 27; others, 8; constituencies not yet counted, 232.

At least two women were elected—Viscountess Astor and Mrs. Thomas Wintringham. Both were members of the old parliament. The new parliament will assemble November 20.

Premier Andrew Bonar Law was re-elected at Glasgow with a majority of 2,000.

Former Premier Lloyd George was re-elected unopposed at Carnarvon, Wales.

The government sustained severe losses through the switch of votes from the Tory to the Socialist-Labor ticket.

PORTUGAL LOSES CASE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The Portuguese government lost in the supreme court of the United States today its contention that its ships could not be libelled for American claims in federal courts. The suit was brought by George S. Duarte, Portuguese consul general at Washington. He held the claims should go to diplomatic settlement. The court dismissed the appeal.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

SUN WORSHIP

There are primitive peoples who take the sun for their god and have religious rites and dances dedicated to the worship of their god, the sun.

Traces of this sun-worshiping habit are seen in our civilization today. I might say more than traces—in fact, every summer a large per cent of our population may be seen on the beaches going through their annual sun-worship. They lie around, clothed in various states of abbreviation, getting the brand of their god, the sun, upon them, and being sun-kist.

This process of getting sun-kist, however, is not without its dangers. The sun's kiss is a fervent, not to say burning caress and it may be accompanied by all the symptoms of a deep burn—fever, chills, and swelling of the tissues.

Did you know that? When you came home from the beach after your first day trying to get a fashionable color in one exposure, and you found you had fever and chills and your tissues were red and hot and swollen and burning, you probably thought you had got ptomaine poisoning, didn't you, or something equally serious?

And you were frightened.

Of course that might have happened, too. But it is not at all unusual for extensive sunburn to be accompanied by these symptoms. Now an extensive burn is dangerous, even though it is only an extensive sunburn, and it should be avoided. Where large areas of the skin are put out of working order, the kidneys may be affected. Having to do eliminating work that should be done by the skin, and having to absorb broken down tissue products from the inflammation of the skin, the kidneys are more or less irritated. And it is no trifling thing to trifle with the kidneys.

So, if you are a sun-worshipper, modify your ardor and do not expose too large areas of yourself and too long at a time in your worship.

On gradual exposures, the pigment in the skin is formed, the skin becomes darkened or tanned and this protects the skin and underlying tissues from the burning of the sun and allows only its beneficial rays to penetrate.

There really is something about the sun that does command our worship, for we can safely say we couldn't live without it. Of course we have always known that the sun was the source of all energy on the earth, therefore all life is dependent upon it, but it is only in recent years that we have found out more about its healing action on certain ailments if properly applied.

We have known of its effects in killing bacteria and its beneficial effects on health. But the direct chemical effect of the sun on the blood is of recent knowledge. It has been found that some of the ultra-violet rays which produce photographic and other chemical effects, pass through the skin and affect the blood, raising markedly its resistance to tuberculosis—of the bone and skin particularly—and rickets.

You know of the sanitoria where children and adults suffering from tuberculosis are gradually exposed to the sun until they are immune to its burning rays, and its healing rays go through the skin and cure them of their tuberculosis. A small portion of the body is exposed at a time—and a short time at that, not more than five or ten minutes—until the skin is gradually tanned.

It has recently been found in a series of experiments which have been carried on at Columbia university, that the sun's rays have a very direct beneficial chemical action on the course of rickets in children. I will write more on this important subject very soon. Meanwhile, heeding my cautions, have your babies join the sun worshippers.

To Do and Not to Do

1—Don't expose yourself very long in the sunlight at first.

2—Use rice or talcum powder heavily on your face if you do not want your face to burn. Don't use creams, for the little globules of fat act as a sun glass and you burn all the more.

3—If you are burned so you have blisters, treat them the same as a fire burn. Prick the blisters at the edge with a sterile needle (pass it through a flame two or three times), let out the serum but do not destroy the blister skin since it acts as a protection. Apply some antiseptic ointment, such as boric acid ointment, heavily, and keep a sterile gauze compress on until the burn is healed.

'WIRE HAIR' GIVEN MILADY BY MARCEL, PIONEER FASHION DICTATOR; STYLES SHOWN

PARIS—Enter wire hair. The venerable Marcel, original wave artist, has emerged from obscurity in his provincial chateau to again set the world of fashion agog by the creation of wig transformations carefully set in a frame work of gold or silver wire which sets the hair off to advantage besides giving a wave that will wave forever.

The effect is bizarre but not ugly, especially when the wire is colored the same as the dress.

With rain spoiling the races the week's fashion parade was confined to the opening of the theatrical season, a series of first nights giving society a chance to display the winter modes.

Among the novelties which were eagerly snapped up by American buyers were several striking models of embroidered fur, something never before attempted. The fur is generally ermine or mole cleverly worked with designs in other fur which is colored harmoniously.

Angular women came into their own at last when the "Rodin gown" was launched at the opening of "Peer Gynt" at the Magador Theatre. This is a closely knitted silk robe of bronze-colored silk, which, when worn by a tall woman with pronounced angles, gives the curious effect of resembling Rodin statuary.

The graceful, rounded woman cannot wear these gowns, owing to their elasticity, which causes a glove-like fit.

The Russian influence is still dominant in a majority of the new fashions, getting a new start at the Russian fetes held this week at the Ritz and Clardig's, the latter presided over by Ganna Walska McCormick, aided by her husband.

Gray is in favor again as a smart color of the season, which was emphasized at the wedding of Mrs. Angela de Acosta Sewell to Capt. Frederick Shaw, the Irish sportsman. The bride wore a gray georgette crepe gown, a gray veil, gray velvet hat, gray shoes, while the bridegroom wore gray trousers, a gray tie and a gray silk hat. Two of the three bridesmaids were also in gray.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN FEVER

"I never should have married," I heard a woman say the other day.

Her friends looked astonished at what sounded like a statement of matrimonial infelicity, for she has always seemed to be happily mated.

"I don't mean," she went on to explain, "that I am dissatisfied with my husband. I would rather have married him than any man I ever met, but I don't think I should have married anyone. I am not the type that ought to marry. I am not domestic. All that kind of work comes hard to me. I would have been much more successful at office work and I like that kind of work better. And then I am very strong for personal freedom. It is hard for me to compromise and give in. I don't think I have a good temperament for a wife. I think I would have been happier and more efficient if I had made up my mind not to marry."

Clever of Her

She paused and thought a minute and then she added. "Only if I hadn't married I shouldn't have known anything about the difficulties that come with married life and very likely I should have thought that being married was the only way to be happy. So I'll say that if I could have known all I know now about married life and yet not have married I would have been happier."

An interesting point of view, is it not?

Clever of her to realize that she might have exaggerated the advantages and minimized the disadvantages of a state she had not experienced. Most people don't realize that when they are regretting things.

But I think she stopped just one step short of the full truth.

What about the converse of the statement that she makes: "If I could have known all I know about married life and yet not have married I would have been happier."

Suppose she knew now all, she would have known if she had not married, about the life of a middle-aged business woman, might she not alter her opinion about which is the happier course?

The Disadvantages of Marriage

She knows all about the disappointments, the readjustments, the exactions of married life, the irksomeness of doing what someone else wants to do when you want to do what you want to do.

But she knows nothing about the loneliness of unmarried life for a woman past her first youth, the terrible sense of loneliness when the family breaks up, the fear of losing her job, the left-out feeling that sometimes inundates the unmarried woman and makes her feel "all thy waters have passed over me."

We never see the disadvantages of any course we do not take. Disadvantages are things you have to learn by experience. Advantages you can see from a distance.

Husbands or Shoes

And this applies to every kind of a choice—whether it's a husband or a gown, or a house, or a place to spend the summer, or a career, or a pair of shoes.

So the next time you are smitten with the "it might have been" fever treat yourself by suggesting that thought. If you had taken the other course you would doubtless be regretting this one. I don't mean that we never make mistakes, but that all the advantages seldom lie as completely with one choice as we are apt to think.

Tomorrow—Flash-light Comments.

BEAUTY CHATS

by Edna Kent Forbes

INEXPENSIVE SOAPS

Some people have an idea that the more expensive a soap is the better it must be. This isn't the least bit true and is rather distressing because so many girls spend more than they can possibly afford on costly soaps for the praiseworthy purpose of preserving their pretty complexions.

It is perfectly true that the costly soaps are good in quality and mild, but there are ever so many inexpensive soaps that are every bit as beneficial to the skin. A good soap gives a good lather, except when the water is particularly hard, in which case of course a special variety adapted to hard water must be used. A soap with a delicate perfume is of course delightful to use, but it is not a bit more cleansing than one with only its own clean odour. A soap that comes from France may tempt you to spend a great deal on it, but remember you are paying for packing and shipping and all the other little expenses attached to an imported article. If you can afford it, all right, if not, there are plenty of home-made soaps that are as good.

By all this I do not mean to recommend cheap soaps. You must not buy any variety that contains too much caustic or soda, for this will dry and harm the skin. You must never use strong soaps though they do cleanse more quickly, simply because they harm the delicate tissues of the skin.

Personally, I recommend curd soap as a good cheap coap for bathing and shampooing. Castile is better and only slightly more expensive. Unscented oatmeal bleaches the skin, keeping it soft and white. Tar soap is inexpensive and delightful as a shampoo. None of these cost very much.

Olive.—Soaps that are made for laundry purposes are too severe to use on the face; even the hands that are constantly immersed in soapy water become impaired and only good treatments with creams will counteract this abuse. A fine soap costs so little that you should not resort to such soaps on the face as have caustic qualities.

Josephine.—Sage and sulphur is the most harmless stain for brown hair. If yours is just beginning to turn try treatments with a tonic and massage.

Blue Eyes.—The henna shampoo will give your hair the "bright spots" you mention. It is quite harmless and will not change the actual color of the hair. Your weight should be 110 pounds.

Tomorrow—Graceful Feet.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Book Reviews

"Command," which Doubleday, Page & Co., published on October 20, is the fruit of William McFee's earlier adventures in the Mediterranean, on tramp ships bringing copper from Africa and ore to Rotterdam, as an officer in the British navy, serving on a transport in the Aegean, nosing through the fog that besets the mariner in among the Cyclades or exploring the oriental intricacies of Smyrna and Constantinople. It is also the fruit of his mature perception of character and power in delineation. Spokesly, the young naval officer, is the principal character of the drama, a man whose patriotism becomes confounded with his personal ambition, a superbly impenetrable young egotist, in whom the monotonous routine of the sea bred an impatience with life for withholding the command he so obviously deserved.

William McFee has a rich store of fertile memories from which to draw in fashioning "Command," for he has lived singularly close to life's actualities. Born at sea in the three-masted square-rigged Erin's Isle, of which his father was designer, builder, owner and master, young William grew up in London, the center of the shipping world. The boy had two ambitions—to go to sea and to be an engineer, but there were no engineers on the ships he knew. When he had finished an academy of Bury St. Edmunds, McFee was apprenticed to a great engineering house in Aldersgate, and after passing his examinations for mechanical engineer, he found work as a draughtsman for a firm manufacturing laundry machinery. Later he went about England, trying to sell brass-bound machines guaranteed to last a century in competition with cheap, flimsy American makes that made no pretention of lasting longer than the next innovation in style. Next to machinery, McFee loved books. Yielding to an impulse to write, he sent an article about commuting to a local paper. It was accepted. He wrote others and at the end of a month had earned $5. He determined to be a writer and settled down with his artist friend, Arthur Elder, in Cheyne Walk, Chelsea, a London Greenwich village, filled with advanced intelligencia.

Escaping, McFee went to sea as third engineer on a tramp steamer bound for South Africa. For five years he sailed the seven seas to America, Japan, and the Mediterranean ports. During spare moments he worked on a novel. Then he emigrated to America and started the heavy gray box of manuscript from publisher to publisher. To provide bread and butter he wrote advertising and business letters for illiterate business men. Then the war and service in the English navy in the Mediterranean. Since then, "Casuals of the Sea," "Aliens," "Captain Macedoine's Daughter," and now "Command," have won a place in permanent literature.

Although he is now a successful novelist of secure prestige, McFee prefers to go to sea to keep fresh his knowledge of "ordinary human possibilities. "I suspect the sedentary writer," he says, "Of art I never grow weary, but she calls me all over the world. The sea is a good life and I love it. I love the men and their ships. I find in them a never-ending panorama which illustrates my theme—the problem of human folly. I stay at sea to keep in contact with reality."

It would take 5000 bees on the scale to balance a pound weight.

They Say That

A substantial bequest to the family coachman in a recent New York will showed that there are still people upon whom the motor car has not set its seal of domination. Nor is it sentiment only that rallies to the defense of the horse against its enemy, the H. P.

Go into the market for horseflesh and you will be surprised at the way Dobbin holds his own in public favor. On the backwoods farms of New York state matched work teams of 2500 pounds and up are in demand at $400, more or less, scaling up or down from that figure, according to age, temper and general condition. The tractor has invaded every locality; but the farmer still finds need for one team. Then there is a steady demand from the cities for truck horses. In spite of the optimistic note in motor truck advertisements the "low" in horse demand for truck use seems to have been reached and passed. Horses, as the market reporters are fond of saying, "have turned the corner." The wise ones say that city streets are now so full of vehicles that traffic is slowing down again to horse pace, at which hay motors beat gasoline motors in efficiency. At least those who go in for short hauls, notably the express companies, stick to horses and call for more and more of them.

Another sign of reviving interest in horses is the increasing number of horse shows. More horse shows will be held in American cities this year than ever before. Everywhere the friends of the horse are rallying to his support. And from Kentucky comes word of a brisk all-season demand for gaited saddle horses, a revival conditional no doubt by the growing faith of doctors that a horse is the best assistant a physicians can have in arousing the torpid liver of the tired business man.

DINNER:
Celery Oyster Soup
Rissoles—Brown Sauce
Rice—Pepperstuffed with corn

SARDINE SALAD: Remove the skin and bones from one small box sardines in oil. Cut in small pieces, marinate with French dressing; let stand one hour, or longer; drain. Line salad bowl with crisp lettuce leaves and heap the sardines in center, cover with six stuffed olives, cut in thin slices crosswise, and three sweet pickled gherkins cut the same way. Put mayonnaise around the base of the salad.

BAKED APPLES: Wipe choice red apples, and make two circular cuts through the skin, leaving a one inch band around apple midway between stem and blossom ends. Put in baking dish, sprinkle generously with sugar and add water to cover bottom of pan. Bake it in a hot oven until soft, basting frequently with syrup in pan.

OYSTER SOUP: Put one tablespoon lard, or other cooking fat, in the saucepan and when it is hot, add two tablespoons flour, stirring constantly to brown nicely, but without the slightest semblance of scorching; then add four sprigs of parsley and one large onion chopped very fine; continue the stirring and cooking for five minutes, then add one quart of boiling water, a little at a time, while stirring constantly. When it comes to the boiling point, drop in two cups of washed and cleaned oysters and one teaspoon butter. Cook three minutes; remove from stove and serve with crisp crackers.

RISSOLES: Mix two cups of chopped cold, cooked beef, veal, or left-over meat of any kind with one cup of fine stale bread crumbs, wet with milk and squeezed thoroughly, one teaspoon minced parsley, one-fourth teaspoon each of salt and black pepper, a dash of cayenne and sufficient cold milk to mold into small balls, using two tablespoons for each ball. Brush lightly with milk, roll in meal and brown nicely in hot fat. Drain and serve with brown sauce.

BEET SALAD: Cut cold, cooked beets in one-half inch cubes; marinate with French Dressing; let stand one hour or longer. There should be two cups of prepared beets. When ready to serve, drain beets and add one-half cup chopped celery, which has been crisped in ice water, and moisten with cooked salad dressing. Toss lightly together and serve with lettuce or cress border.

DATE PIE: Cook one package dates in boiling water until soft; drain, stone and rub them through a sieve. (There should be one and one-half cups of pulp). Flavor with one-half teaspoon lemon extract. Beat three eggs, add four tablespoons sugar, one eighth teaspoon salt and slowly add two cups scalded milk; strain and add the date pulp. Pour into piepan lined with rice pastry and bake in a moderate oven until firm in center.

LIVELY CONTESTS PROVIDED FANS

Weekly Boxing Program Has Pep; Dancing to Follow Bouts In Future

Christopher Columbus and "Kid" Woppe, a snappy pair of lightweights hailing from Los Angeles, battled to a draw last night in the main event of the weekly boxing program of the Modern Woodmen of America at the American Legion hall, 610 East Broadway. Both boys were fast, their clever footwork speeding up the bout from the start.

Young Harry, fighting at 130 pounds, clearly outpointed "Morrie" Solino all the way, although he was unable to slip over a knockout over the "worried looking" Mexican.

Battling Jaffee, former newsboy champion of his weight in Los Angeles, won his bout from Paul Irmo by outpointing him in every round. The boys weighed 115 pounds.

In a feature wrestling bout, consisting of three five-minute rounds, Joe Kelly won by a single fall over "Hot Dog" Weiner, the fall coming in the opening round.

Dancing to Follow

Following the show, an announcement was made by C. M. Hare, manager of the fight committee of the Modern Woodmen of America, to the effect that next Wednesday night's program will be the inauguration of a series of aftermath dances.

The boxing card will take place promptly at 8 o'clock, following which an orchestra will be furnished for dancing. The general admission has been cut in two, and is now 50 cents.

DRY FIGHT CONTINUES

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—"Dry up the seven seas," is the plan of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in world convention here as revealed in the session of the delegates. Resolutions were adopted to this effect and copies struck off to be sent to kings, presidents, princes and emperors the world over.

Tax Returns Prove Business Improving

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—October collections of internal revenue taxes in the Southern California distirct reflect steady and increasing business expansion, according to a survey completed today by Collector Rex Goodcell.

Facing a pronounced shrinkage in receipts owing to drastic reduction in rates under the new revenue act, the income tax collections for October were $496,323.89 as against $499,892.17 for October 1921. This remarkable showing is due to the fact that 47,826 more separate returns were filed in 1922 than in 1921, indicating increased business and the acquisition of new and desirable population.

Manufacturer's tax on oleomargarine more than doubled over last October, while the sale of documentary stamps used on bonds, conveyances of real estate and capital stock issues increased 12 per cent. A 15 per cent advance was shown on telephone and telegraph messages. Special tax collections on theatres jumped 65 per cent and bowling alelys and billiards increased 33 per cent.

Cabarets and roof gardens showed a 20 per cent advance in admission taxes and even athletic, social and sporting clubs paid taxes on dues and memberships that indicated a jump of 25 per cent. More passenger for hire automobiles were in commission in October 1922 than in the same period of 1921 as indicated by an increase of 50 per cent in tax receipts. This points to an influx of tourists.

Collector Goodcell pointed out that according to the latest figures California and eleven other states are paying 95.83 per cent of the total income tax receipts of the government.

The Southern California district has produced 1,339,095 gallons of wine since July 1, and on October 31 there was on hand in the bonded wineries 2,533,625 gallons. Included in these figures is dry wine still in the press and not yet officially reported.

Of the wine produced since July 1, 479,059 gallons was sweet wine and 860,000 gallons dry wine. During the fiscal year ending June 30 there was produced 2,506,923 gallons of which 1,509,427 was dry and 997,496 sweet wine. The total production for the entire state of California for the last fiscal year was 6,840,574 gallons and the withdrawals 3,485,843, indicating an excess in production for the year over withdrawals amounting to 3,354,831.

DEPUTY OPERATES STILL

REDDING, Nov. 16.—Allen Waller, of Manton, a deputy sheriff of Tehama county pleaded guilty in Anderson on a charge of operating a still over the line in Shasta county. Waller was fined $250. He paid the fine on the spot.

Luncheon was served from 12 to 2 at the home of Mrs. Smith, while the bazaar proper took place on Mrs. Beach's lawn.

The handiwork and culinary crafts were admirably represented in the array of articles for sale. A feature of the occasion was the raffling of two bed comforts, one of silk and one of patchwork.

Mrs. Harry Rising of Los Angeles won the silk comfort and Miss Ellen Capes of Glendale the patchwork one.

The bazaar, though a P. E. O. affair and not open to the general public, was very well attended, and Mrs. Beach reports it a financial success. The proceeds, she states, go to swell the exchequer of the educational fund.

AUXILIARY HAS LUNCHEON

A luncheon yesterday noon at the home of Mrs. G. H. Rowe at 216 South Orange street was enjoyed by members of the executive board of the Women's Auxiliary of the local American Legion post.

Mrs. Rowe entertained Mesdames Chalmers Day, George Clayton, James McBryde, L. T. Rowley, E. U. Emery, W. E. Kelley and E. W. W. Hayward.

During the meeting hour after lunch a list of initiates was read and it was decided that they would be received into the auxilairy at the first evening meeting in December.

The auxiliary will also nominate and elect officers in December and the nominating committee includes Mrs. Chalmers Day, chairman, and Mrs. Emil Kiefer and Mrs. James McBryde.

U. S. BOATS TO CHILE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Secretary of the Navy Denby ordered the cruisers Cleveland and Denver, attached to the special service squadron in Central American waters to proceed immediately to Chile with relief supplies for the victims of the earthquake. The supplies will include food and clothing. Navy officials said it would take the cruisers nine days to reach Chile.

Acousticon Feature of Club's New Home

One of the latest and most modern features to be incorporated in the new home of the Tuesday Afternoon club at Central avenue and Lexington drive, is to be the acousticon equipment in the auditorium. Announcement of this feature was made this morning through Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, chairman of the executive building committee, who with Mrs. Adele Cannaday has thoroughly investigated the great benefit and pleasure the acousticon will be for deaf members of the club.

As far as is known the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse will be the only woman's clubhouse equipped with an acousticon.

The acousticons are very popular in church auditoriums and they make attendance at public gatherings a pleasure for those who are hard of hearing.

A transmitter will be located on the auditorium platform and wires for receivers installed to lead to other parts of the room. None of the paraphernalia, except the neat receivers held by the deaf persons, is visible.

The installation of the acousticon at the clubhouse will make the club programs more attractive for the members and will undoubtedly attract many Glendale women who have not joined the club because of defective hearing.

Glendale Women to Attend Mission Meet

Among the women expected to attend the all-day meeting of the Pacific branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary society, on Friday, at the University Methodist Episcopal church, Los Angeles, are Mrs. W. B. Collins, Mrs. A. P. Torrey, Mrs. C. F. Godfrey and Mrs. Helen Knatten Scripps.

The delegates recently returned from the general executive meeting in Baltimore are expected to bring inspiring messages and plans for the coming year will be formulated.

Alhambra and Local Teams Play Friday

The local heavyweight football season will come to a close tomorrow afternoon when Coach N. C. Hayhurst's Red-and-Black-clad squad clashes with the Alhambra high heavies. To date the Glendale eleven has failed to win a contest in the entire Central league season, and they are sparing no time and effort in perfecting an offensive that will be able to pile up a winning score.

Five of the regulars on the team—including Captain Fred Stofft, Butts, Bartowe, Clouse and Marshall—will be lost to the team through graduation next year, and they are particularly anxious to slip over a victory on the Alhambrans.

The game will be played on the Glendale high school campus, the kickoff being scheduled to take place at 3:30 o'clock.

Madam, Would You Carry a Basket Load for 2 Cents?
An investigation by the New York State Department of Markets, comparing self-help stores and regular quality-service groceries shows that the cash-and-carry store sells at about only 2 per cent cheaper.
We have this state government report as authority, therefore, that you earn 2 cents when you lug home a dollar's worth of groceries from a cash-and-carry or "self-help" store.
Is it worth it?
A woman who enjoys the service of a reliable grocer will not even let her servants go shopping. Saving 2 cents on the dollar by sending a maid to the grocery is certainly not economical.
SERVICE saves time and a SERVICE STORE gives you this time-saving service at cost.
In a service store you don't have to stand in line at the cashier's desk to have your basket searched and pay for the privilege of waiting on yourself.
Our store is a SERVICE and QUALITY store.
We deliver.
Telephone your order and be assured of prompt and efficient service as well as better quality merchandise.

WOMAN LOSES CHANCE.

ATLANTA, Nov. 16.—Hope that Mrs. W. H. Felton might possibly enter the senate as a sworn member of that body received what was practically a death blow today when a telegram was received from Governor Hardwick summoning the state board of election canvassers to pass on the election of Judge Walter F. George to take the seat of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson. The meeting, it was said, will be held so that Judge George can proceed to Washington to begin his duties on Monday.

DEFEAT COST $3,695.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—It cost "Aunt Alice" Robertson, the only woman member of congress, $3,695 to make her unsuccessful race for re-election in Oklahoma, according to her campaign statement filed here today. The Democrat who defeated her, W. W. Hastings, spent nearly $105.

Washable Walls!

THINK what that means—not only in hotels, offices and all kinds of public buildings, but in every room of your house.

Walls that are always clean and sanitary. Walls that remain fresh and new. Walls that can be washed instead of redecorated.

Patton's Velumina, an oil flat wall paint, gives walls that glossless, velvety finish so much in demand to-day. And yet, blemishes of all kinds are quickly and easily removed with soap and water. Dirt and grime can't penetrate this pore-proof paint.

We have Velumina in white and sixteen soft, beautiful colors. Also paints, varnishes and enamels for every purpose. We will gladly advise with you as to your needs.

The third annual cat show of Glendale, scheduled for November 24-25, has already enrolled more than 100 entries, announces Dr. Libbie Ashcroft, president of the Glendale Cat club, sponsors of the event.

These entries come from such diversified points as Santa Monica, San Pedro, Whittier, Pasadena, Altadena, Pomona, Riverside, Redlands and Santa Barbara, as well as from Los Angeles, Hollywood and Glendale, proving that interest in the show is widespread.

Out of one hundred and one possible classifications, entries have already been made in over fifty. There will be the usual ribbons for winners in each class, and in addition there will be cups and medals for:

First—The best cat in the show.

Second—The best cat of opposite sex in the show.

Third—The best neuter in the show.

Fourth—The best kitten in the show.

Fifth—The best short-haired cat in the show.

In addition, thirty "three win" challenge cups are offered. To become the permanent owner of one of these, an exhibitor or entry must win three years running.

As the entry books are about to close, those desiring to participate are requested by Dr. Ashcroft to phone Glendale 2100-M at once.

DOLLAR DAY SALE BEGINS TOMORROW

Merchants on 200 Block, N. Brand, Start Drive to Obtain Business

Exemplifying the spirit of cooperation and believing that in union there is strength, the merchants in the 200 block on North Brand are making a united effort to impress the people of Glendale with the fact that the 200 block on North Brand is a very important and integral part of the city's shopping center.

To emphasize their idea that merchants located in a lower rent section and with a consequent less overhead can sell on a closer margin than others where fixed overhead is greater, these enterprising merchants have set aside two days, Friday and Saturday, to be known as "dollar days."

On these days especially attractive prices will be in effect for almost every conceivable kind of merchandise. In some instances a group of articles are offered for sale for a dollar, in other instances anywhere from one to twenty-five dollars in saving is represented to the buyer, in the purchase of the article.

Shows Value of Dollar

The purpose of the drive is to show just what a dollar will do in each of the stores represented in the campaign. In the advertising columns of today's News there is a double page announcement giving an indication of the many wonderful bargains that are offered and a cursory glance of these business stories as told on that page will make every shopper's heart glad as well as show him how to make one dollar do the work of two.

Fourteen merchants and business men are participating in the drive. Each is determined to fulfill his part in providing attractive merchandise at the lowest possible prices in the effort to more fully acquaint the people of Glendale with the shopping district in the 200 block on North Brand.

The big Wilson-Bell Hardware store is brim full of low priced merchandise and every essential that is necessary to the greatest home comfort, from carpet tacks to egg beaters, is carried in stock. The Glendale Bootery has rearranged its stocks and are offering some very unusual buys in shoes and hosiery for the big sale days.

Big Savings Offered

The Brand department store is offering many special values in seasonable merchandise. In many instances it is understood garments are offered for less than the actual cloth could be purchased.

Ralph W. Brown, the photographer, said that 'unfortunately, he could not offer anything for sale at one dollar, but despite that he was a booster for his section of town.

Merino, the tailor, is offering an extra pair of pants for a dollar with each suit of clothes ordered either Friday or Saturday. J. J. Delaney has some unusual offerings in shirts and men's socks. The Kodakery is a strong booster for its end of town and will save its patrons many dollars on their work. The C. & S. Cafeteria will serve unusually good lunches and dinner on both Friday and Saturday so that the pleasure of shopping will be augmented by "Good Eats."

The Glendale Grocery is for the dollar drive strong and to back up their idea of the success of the drive are offering several very attractive grocery buys.

The Kenny Music company is making an almost unheard of proposition on the purchase of a phonograph. By paying a small amount down the purchaser will be given credit for twice the amount he pays up to $25.

William Schmidt & Son have the meat, fruit and vegetable departments at the Brand Market, and their offerings will appeal to the housewife for week-end market necessities.

The Shuck Music company is making great concessions on popular records. It is also making a special offer for the purchase of musical instruments.

Walton & Walton, while being the newest concern to open up in this district, are real estate dealers and are live wire boosters for that section of town.

The Grossman-Milier Furniture company is the home of everything for the home and are featuring for Friday and Saturday up-to-date merchandise at unusually attractive prices.

Mr. and Mrs. Koepke Back From Long Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koepke of 1315 South Central avenue are being welcomed home by their Glendale friends from an extended trip of five months that took them through the Panama canal across the Atlantic to Europe and back again to the United States for a prolonged visit in the east and north.

Mr. and Mrs. Koepke and their daughter, Miss Dorothy, sailed from Los Angeles June 10, passing through the Panama canal June 26 and arriving in New York July 8.

Crossing the Atlantic they toured England and then went over to the Continent for trips through Germany and Switzerland. While abroad they attended the Passion Play at Oberammergau.

They returned to the United States in September and Miss Koepke came on west to continue her studies at an exclusive Los Angeles school, while her parents remained in the east for a time and then came west for a visit at their former home in Oregon.

ENGLAND VISITED BY DR. HARROWER

Writes to Friends Here of Oxford College; In Hotel 500 Years Old

Dr. Henry R. Harrower has been through Oxford college!

Sure, he went through it October 25, in company with Mrs. Harrower and daughter, Verna.

"We went for a walk around the college in the dusk," he remarks in a letter to his friends at the Harrower Laboratory. The irregular and narrow streets are fascinating. When we came to a little alleyway with quaint Tudor cottages on each side, we just had to turn in.

"This proved to be the beginning of quite an adventure. At the end of the alley was a turn. Then we came to an arched entryway leading to a passage and so to a quadrangle of new colleges only a few hundred years old through which we wandered in the lamplight.

"Weird, strange, exciting experiences for humdrum people from so modern a city as Glendale!

Hotel 500 Years Old

Dr. Harrower is keenly interested in the erection of the new hotel on the northeast corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway. While in Oxford the Harrower family stopped at a hotel which was over 500 years old.

"The little room, which we are occupying on the second floor, was used by travelers hundreds of years ago. It is quite the strangest and most interesting hotel I've ever been in—bulging, low ceilings, crooked walls, funny irregular corners and steps up and more steps down at almost every turn.

"We are still gripped by the same strange feeling—a sort of subsconscious wonder at this old place. I couldn't help wondering what sort of folks occupied our room, say 400 years ago."

Visit Aged Castles

Both Warwick Castle, whose owner sided with Cromwell and Kenilworth castle, whose owner sided with King Charles in the civil war of England, were visited by the Harrower family.

"The difference in the appearance of the two castles was decisive evidence that it pays to be on the right side at the right time," reported Dr. Harrower. "There is no chance for the Earl and Countess of Warwick to reach the poorhouse."

En route to Oxford the Harrower family motored through Banbury made famous by Mother Goose for its Banbury crosses and horses.

Legion Auxiliary to Have Benefit Affair

Each member of the American Legion Auxiliary is to give a "silver tea" on Monday, November 20, at any time after 3 p. m. Mrs. Johanna S. Edwards of 369 W. California avenue, is going to entertain with a "silver Dutch Kaffee Klatsch" at the American Legion hall. Proceeds will be for the Auxiliary fund.

And to further the affair, Mrs. Edwards has written the following:

Come one and all to the Legion hall
To a supposed "Silver Tea."
But after some consideration
I'll give you the information
A "Dutch Kaffee Klatsch" its goin' to be,
With sugar-cake and apple-cake
Which are all my own home make.
Please come and don't be too slow
As our treasury is very low.
If you should not have a dime
Then let a quarter be sublime;
But if you haven't got a quarter
Fifty cents you surely "oughter."
Now don't you start to holler!
If you haven't got the fifty cents,
Will appreciate a silver dollar—
We will thank you for it now
With our most sincerest bow.

ness, sympathy and understanding, may we keep and inspire everyone with whom our work brings us in contact."

And the pledge presented by Mrs. Shaw for the parents' signatures was, "I hereby pledge that I shall not permit my daughter to go out in the evening without a chaperone, or my son to accompany a girl who is unchaperoned."

Mrs. Thomas Woods had arranged the entertainment program for the meeting and after her introduction by Mrs. Widdows she announced a group of musical numbers by high school students directed by Mrs. C. A. Parker, and an informal talk on books by Mrs. J. C. Danford, librarian of the city library.

Music Is Pleasing

The singing by the boys' glee club of "The Land of Hope" was exceptionally well done and in acknowledgment of the applause they received they sang most seriously about the green little boy who ate the green little apple.

Equally enjoyable were the piano numbers by Ruth Goto, who played "Chanson Orientale" and Amy Bainbridge, who played Grieg's "To Spring" and MacDowell's "Indian Lodge."

Mrs. Danford's book chat was particularly enjoyed by the company. Instead of talking just about books she talked about where Glendale people of all ages may find books, the city library, which she chose to call "The House by the Side of the Road."

"We have no rival," said Mrs. Danford, "In fact, we are a supplement to everything. We are open twelve hours every day and ever ready to serve every one in Glendale and as the poem says, I want the Glendale library to be 'The house by the side of the road, to be a friend to man.'"

Boy Scout Night

As one of the features of Children's Book Week, Mrs. Danford announced that John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission Play, will be the honored guest and speaker at the Boy Scout night this Saturday night. Everyone is invited to meet with the Scouts at the library to greet Mr. McGroarty.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. F. B. Nay spoke of the inconvenience of the present telephone system to the city library and she was appointed chairman of a committee to confer with City Manager Reeves with regard to securing a direct telephone line to the library. Mesdames Wickert and Culp were other members named on the committee.

From the auditorium the P.-T. A. members and guests went to the school cafeteria for an informal social visit with each other and the high school teachers.
